► HILL HOUSE INTERIORS

was designed for a client who adores and appreciates the more romantic elements of contemporary living, says Helen. Superbly sleek, the scheme features polished Perla marble, and an abundance of storage hidden within elegant bespoke cabinetry. The mother-of-pearl mosaic and polished chrome geometric inlays, applied to the double vanity unit and bath panel, link to a full-height mosaic wall in the walk-in shower enclosure. It's the perfect sanctuary at the end of a busy day. hillhouseinteriors.co.uk

◀ JOANNA PLANT

Interior designer Joanna Plant will create a sitting room scheme for House & Garden's HOUSE fair from June 22-25 (in collaboration with the Spirit of Summer Fair). Here she offers her advice on designing a bathroom: 'I like to use wallpaper in a guest bathroom, often something unexpectedly bold and having painted timber panelling below makes it very practical. Wallpaper can be an expensive endeavour so it's nice to have free rein in a tiny space. There is nothing worse than a forlorn, unloved loo, so always have some pretty soap and towels. Place a hook on the back of the door for your jacket or handbag. Pictured is a basin from Lefroy Brooks backed by wallpaper by Neisha Crosland. joannaplantinteriors.com

► MARTIN BRUDNIZKI

Renowned for creating luxurious interiors at A-list hotspots such as The Ivy and Soho Beach House, Martin Brudnizki has cast his designer eye on bathrooms, with a collection in collaboration with Drummonds. The elegant washstand pictured features a white marble top and brass legs, and has a useful bent recess in the towel rail which ensures that the towel stays in place. From £4,620. 020-7376 4499; drummonds-uk.com mbds.com

ART & CRAFT

DRUMMONDS IS AN ICONIC BRITISH BRAND KNOWN FOR BATHROOMS THAT COMBINE CRAFTSMANSHIP AND INNOVATION

While tradition and heritage are key to its story, Drummonds is a company with its eye firmly on the future. It was founded over 25 years ago by Drummond Shaw who, disappointed by the quality of bathroom products on the market, decided to set up his own foundry and workshop so he could produce his own collection.

Shaw set up three manufactories to work with iron, brass and clay and it is here that all Drummonds products are still made using traditional craft skills including iron casting, shot-blasting, dry-fit enamel processing and hand-polishing. It takes time to create a Drummonds piece – for example each bath takes several weeks to make – and the brassware collection involves a labour-intensive ‘lost-wax’ casting process. The results however speak for themselves and are the reason that a discerning clientele, including a host of professional interior designers, are committed to the Drummonds brand.

While tradition and craftsmanship are key to the quality of the end result, so too is innovation. Drummonds has collaborated with key names from the world of design, the latest being Martin Brudnizki, the man behind the interiors of The Ivy and Scott’s in London and the new Beekman hotel in New York. The collection currently introduces further timeless, classic designs. Drummonds also offers bespoke finishes on individual pieces, plus a three dimensional bathroom layout design service.

To appreciate the quality and authenticity of Drummonds, visiting the showroom is a must. Head to London (Chelsea or Notting Hill) or, further afield, the D&D Building in New York. From simple roots in the English countryside to a stunning new showroom in the heart of New York’s design district, this dynamic luxury brand is thriving.
