[Celebrating the wow factor]

WOW!house has returned this year with another 500 sqm showhouse showing off some inspirational design ideas for every room of the home. Built within the Design Avenue at Design Centre, Chelsea Harbour, London, its 18 full-size rooms have been shaped by established international interior designers in collaboration with leading design brands and suppliers.

Open to visitors until 6 July, the house includes the Drummonds Principal Bathroom by Barlow & Barlow featuring Drummonds fittings throughout, plus lighting from Phos and silver chair from Anemone.

Claire German, CEO of Design Centre, Chelsea Harbour, said: "Our goal is to pioneer a sense of wonder; to amaze and inspire by showing the world what extraordinary achievements can be made when our talented industry comes together in such an ambitious and exceptional way."

DURAVIT

Duravit has introduced the Wave tap range. Featuring a slim, cylindrical base, it is available in chrome, matt black, and three additional scratch-resistant and durable PVD surfaces of brushed stainless steel, brushed bronze, and polished gold. duravit.co.uk

DRUMMONDS

Part of a collection created by designer Marc Newson for Drummonds, the Bilbury tap and shower range is inspired by the aesthetic of vintage industrial fittings. The range offers a shower plate and controls, as well as a bath and basin mixer. The brassware was made by hand using the traditional lost wax casting technique; allowing for great design flexibility in terms of the structure and shape of the products. The taps and mixers are characterised by signature wheel handles. drummonds-uk.com

GRAFF

Bathroom brand GRAFF Designs presented some of its latest additions at Clerkenwell Design Week in May, including the sleek Ametis range designed by Davide Oppizzi, and the 24-carat polished gold Harley collection. (pictured) graff-designs.com
